AVCO EXPANDING

ADDITIONAL CONSTRUCTION STARTED AT AVCO

The AVCO Research and Development laboratories, on Lowell Street, already the biggest set of buildings in the town of Wilmington, are to be expanded further, according to plans filed with the Building Inspector of Wilmington.

Two additional buildings, costing about $300,000 are under construction, and scheduled to be finished in six weeks.

#5 Building, with one story, will occupy 19,152 square feet of space. It is to be used as an 'Arc' Building.

#6 Building will be smaller. It will occupy 8100 square feet, and will be used as a Ballistics Range. It is understood that the building will be long and narrow.

Both buildings, according to an AVCO employee, must be ready within six weeks.

TOWNIES TAKE SOFT BALL PENNANT FOR SECOND YEAR

The Wilmington Soft Ball Pennant is for the second year running in the possession of the Wilmington Townies. The Townies beat the Merri-Macs in a two out of three game playoff, two games straight, last week, Wednesday and Friday.

The score of the two games was 11 to 3, and 17 to 8.

Dick Ethier Sr pitched the first game and George O'Brien, who has a very fast ball, pitched the second. O'Brien's ball was always either very good, or wild, on occasion. There were no balls that could be described as 'fair'.

In addition to the hitting of Phil Nelson, Dick Ethier Jr., Greg Hakey and Ted McKie had good hitting for the victors and Larry Cushing and Tex John son for the losers.

In the second game the Townies had their hitting shoes on. They got 17 hits. The attack

POSTOFFICES REPORT

'LIKE CHRISTMAS'

Both the Wilmington and the North Wilmington Postoffices experienced a rush of business that approximated the annual Christmas rush, as a result of the change in stamp prices on August first.

Extra large supplies of one cent and four cent stamps had been stocked by each postoffice in anticipation, but in each case it was not enough.

Both postoffices ran out of one cent stamps Monday afternoon. There wasn't a one cent stamp to be bought in Wilmington.

Wilmington's postoffices were not unique. The Postmaster from Ballardvale was travelling from one postoffice to another looking for one cent stamps.

BACTERIA COUNT DROPS IN SILVER LAKE

The bacteria count, in the waters of Silver Lake has dropped to an extremely safe figure, according to the Board of Health.

Two weeks ago the count of bacteria reached 2400 coliform per cubic centimeter.

Since then it has dropped. On July 28th the count was 340 coliform per cubic centimeter, and on the 30th it had dropped even further, to 330 per ccm.

BUCK'S CORNER UNDER RECONSTRUCTION

Buck's Corner, the junction of Wildwood Street and Woburn St. is being reconstructed, so as to allow school busses to more easily turn the corner.

BOARD OF HEALTH STATEMENT ON PUBLIC DUMP

In a public statement members of the Board of Health have clarified their position in relation to the question about a public dump for Wilmington.

The statement was an answer to statements by Francis Hagerty, Chairman of the Board of Selectmen, made a week ago.

"The newspaper reports of a week ago state that Frank Hagerty flew into a tizzy over the Board of Health's request for an additional $3000 to extend the town Dump Contract at the Canalas farm. Mr. Hagerty was reported as saying that the Board of Health has been 'throwing the town's money away' and has foolishly tried to get a land fill dump into operation". Mr. Hagerty also stated that 'the town should take a 3-5 year contract with Canalas, and that under such circumstances the town could get a contract for $6500-$7000 a year, compared to the present cost of $10,000 a year.

The most direct way of answering these accusations and showing that in fact it is Mr. Hagerty who is 'foolish' in wanting a long term contract is to explain what the Board of Health is trying to do, and why.

For some time the Town has been in a poor position with respect to its public dumping facilities. At present the town dump is located at Mac Donald Road, at the Canalas pig farm. Although Mr. Canalas is running his dump to the satisfaction of the Board of health, the operation suffers from a number of disadvantages among which the following should be mentioned:

(1) The dump is one of the 'open faced' type with daily burning. This type of operation is not desirable for a town of Wilmington's size and growth rate since it is impossible to prevent smoke and odors from polluting the air.

(2) The dump is expensive: the cost this year was $10,000, a figure which the Board of Health likes as little as Mr. Hagerty. However it is not the town which sets the rate, it is Mr. Canalas, and as long as he has the only dump the town is forced to pay whatever he asks.

In remedying this situation the Board of Health's approach has been two fold. With respect to the cost it is obvious that the town is in the best position when two independent sites are available and the owners bid against each other for the town contract. This not only insures a low price, but also means that the owner (who will no longer have a monopoly on the dump) will be more apt to cooperate with town officials.

The second consideration of the Board of Health was to obtain the best possible type of dump for the town. After a thorough investigation the board was unanimous in its opinion that a sanitary land fill dump under strict control of the Board of Health was clearly the best. No burning (cont Pg 5)

THE DUEL (?) IN THE CLOUDS

To Mr. Average Citizen the questions raised by the opinion of Judge George Thompson, as reported in last week's Town Crier may not be of importance. He will shrug his shoulders and say in effect - so we cut $7200 from the School Committee budget, knowing that it would precipitate a fight, and we lost. Now we must pay the $7200 and another 25%.

But to several other classes of citizens there is more to the decision than a question of shoulder shrugging. Interested in the decision are (1) Educators (2) some Taxpayers, and (3) some Town and City officials faced with ever expanding tax rates.

Educators in Massachusetts have been sitting in a rather fortunate position for some years, thanks to Chapter 71 of the General Laws. In that chapter there is a provision which says in effect that the school committees of the various cities and towns must be provided with the monies that they deem necessary for the proper operation of the school departments, and that failure to provide the necessary money can mean a court decision against the town, with a 25% additional fine.

It is just that which has now happened to the town of Wilmington.

There have been various attempts to circumvent or negate this law. The most notable took place in the cities of Everett and Woburn, and in both cases the positions of the School Committees were upheld.

The fact that the School Committee is in a position to dictate the amount of money they want isn't popularly supported by two classes of citizens, namely certain town and city officials, and some taxpayers. These people feel that School Committee budgets, like other budgets should be subject to some control other than the School Committee. More particularly, town officials who are faced with ever increasing tax rates are the articulate persons in opposing the out-right powers of the school committees. They find themselves blamed for increasing costs of government, when over 50% of the money spent in their community is being spent by an agency out of their control, and they feel that the average citizen doesn't know this, and blames them (the town officials) alone for the increased costs.

The alternative, to put the school committee budgets under control of the town meetings is not necessarily pleasant to contemplate. Some

FOR WHOM THE BELL TOLLS

The HCL, the HCL,

Keeps going up, we know too well.

'Well, what goes up just must come down',

We all declare with puzzled frown.

But wages climb, and prices, too,

Each side well-armed with bally-hoo.

And from far-off, we hear the knell:

We'll drop before the HCL.

towns may be too really economy minded and cut education to the bone, or even further, and the effect could be terrible.

Such a thing did happen, in a sense, right here in Wilmington some twenty odd years ago. We can recall one member of our School Committee saying with pride that the public schools of Wilmington cost less, per capita, than in any other town or city in the Commonwealth. (But let us note, at the same time, that a larger proportion of our High School graduates went on to college than has recently been the case).

The decision of Judge Thompson, to people interested in education, is just another proof that they are right. As of the moment there is nothing that they would like better than to have the whole question dropped, right now. It has been won, they argue, now let's forget it and let it stay won. To go on would just mean that the lawyers would be getting more money.

But there are several statements in Judge Thompson's decision which makes us feel that it is one that just won't be forgotten.

Mr. Buzzell, Town Counsel of Wilmington has not expressed himself directly on these statements, but undoubtedly he was thinking of them when he stated that the town would "probably" appeal the decision.

Paragraph 10, of the decision stated "the amount appropriated by the defendant Town for support of its public schools for the year 1957 was more than sufficient to meet all necessary expenditures -- including dependency allowance and four electric typewriters --- at the end of the year, after making all necessary expenditures, there was an unexpended balance of $7,782.70 available for transfer to the general treasury from the appropriation made by the defendant town for the support of its public schools."

Paragraph 12 says in part: "I rule it immaterial to the issues presented by this petition that, as it turned out, the amount appropriated by the defendant Town was more than ample--"

Paragraph 13 says: "I rule that the amount of money appropriated by the defendant Town for the year 1957 is insufficient as required by G.L. (Ter.Ed) Ch. 71 and Acts in amendment thereof and in addition thereto.

Paragraph 14 says "I rule there is a deficiency and I determine the amount to be $7200'.

TOWN NOTES

Weather

5.65 inches of rain in July. Nineteen out of thirty one days had rain, and the rest of the time it was hot, to paraphrase the Irishman's report.

It's been wonderful for the lawns, all around town they are just as green as can be - and yet we have seen plenty of places where the sprinklers are turned on nearly full time.

Maybe their TV programs are not turned on at the time of the weather reports.

Blight

Amateur gardeners, growing vegetables in the back yard for the first time can take a word of warning about this time about the tomato blight.

Cold damp weather brings a blight to tomato plants, and results in rotten fruit.

There's only one way to beat it - use Bordeaux Powder, dusted liberally in the morning dew.

Not This Time

Several weeks ago this column mentioned that residents of Woburn Street were concerned about the ditch which is being dug for the new sewer line - they felt it was too deep, and dangerous.

A couple of days ago one of these people told us triumphantly that someone had fallen into the ditch - a real 'I told you so' attitude. The story was one in which they didn't expect the fellow to live, etc. etc.

But it turned out that it was merely a case of one of the workmen slipping - when he was at the bottom of the trench!

Ted Kambour

The name Kambour may not mean anything to our newcomers to Wilmington, but back about six or seven years ago we had Ted Kambour as a pitcher for our local High School team.

Ted is now pitching for the Yakima Washington team in the Northwest League - its a farm team of the Braves. So far this year he is credited with 10 wins and 2 losses.

Even Swap

Vincent Marchant and his family lived on High Street. He wanted to be nearer to town.

John Waugh and his family lived on Lowell Street. He wanted to live in North Wilmington.

Last Saturday the two families swapped homes.

The Power of Ads

Everytime something amazes us, and last week it was the advertisement that Kenney John son had, for the Wilmington Esso Servicenter, down at Lowell and Main Streets.

We thought it stunk, to put it bluntly. The printing was poor, and it wasn't Kenney's fault.

But we have been informed, to our amazement, let it be said, that that ad sold a lot of tires.

In other words, sidewalk lawyers will note, Judge Thompson in Paragraph 10 said there was enough money, and in Paragraphs 13 and 14 said there wasn't enough. That's enough for the average sidewalk lawyer.

Mr. Buzzell, of course, hasn't made any public statement on his opinion, and probably will not, until and if the case goes to the Supreme Court of Massachusetts.

That is why we call it a duel in the clouds. The question may well evolve: Can a town determine in town meeting if a School Committee has asked for more than the necessary amount of money - as has been shown to be the case in this instance.

THE SAMUEL GOWING HOUSE

The Samuel Gowing house, in North Wilmington was burned last Saturday, to make room for the oncoming Interstate Highway 93. We made a tour of the building, the evening before, just to record our impressions for posterity, in case posterity is ever interested.

It was a fine example of pre-Revolutionary architecture. Most of the floorboards were of white pine, 18 inches wide. The main beams were of chestnut, and the secondary beams of oak, except in the attic, where white pine was used. The bricks in the fireplaces were all pre-Revolutionary, and were in excellent condition.

The sills were of Chestnut, and in good condition. (We were told that they were rotten, but we saw no signs of any rot.)

There was an ell, in back (the East side) of the house, which was a later addition. We did not concern ourselves with that.

Downstairs were the usual four rooms to be found in a home built before the Revolution. The chestnut beams were clearly visible, as in the architecture of that day. The wall boards were of hard pine, laid horizontally, each one being eight or nine inches wide. In the room in the northwest corner there was a secret hiding place over the fireplace, cleverly hidden in the paneling.

Over each of the fireplaces was a mantel piece of white pine, sturdy specimens of the type prevalent in that day, and above them were white pine paneling.

There were two passageways upstairs, a front stairs and a back stairs. The front stairs had a balustrade, simple, with no curves, but none the less gracefully made.

Upstairs was a repetition of downstairs, in the layout of rooms (the house, incidentally, was not "square to the universe" as the saying is, but faced a little west of south.)

Our inspection of the house was with the idea of dating it. Those pre-Revolutionary brick fireplaces had jarred our belief that the home had been built about 1785 (which we shall explain later).

We looked over the cellar carefully, searching for chisel marks. The cellar was best described as a series of connected cellars, and the stonework was evidently done after the house had been built. All stones had been whitewashed many times. We found no flat chisel marks, only one round chisel mark, and that in a stone at the bottom of the south wall. It had evidently been laid after 1820.

But it was the attic that proved to us that the house was pre-Revolutionary.

In most early homes the chimney went through the ridgeboard, and if the home was later enlarged the chimney came out through the roof, because a new roof would be built, higher than the first one. An example of such a home is the building standing on the corner of Shawsheen Avenue and Bridge Lane, built about 1733, and in later years enlarged. The chimney no longer pierces the ridgepole.

But in the case of the Samuel Gowing house the chimney was designed to go through the roof below the ridge pole, on the south side. There was absolutely no evidence that the house had ever had a new roof built - although there were fire scars on one beam.

Most interesting of all was that the builder had painted his name, and the date. On the west wall of the attic in black paint, were painted the words 'Built by Joseph Howe in 1762'.

In spite of the pre-Revolutionary bricks in the fireplace, and the cut of the beams in the attic we were surprised to see these words. We attempted to have a photograph taken of this but we do not know as of this writing how it came out. The words were hardly visible.

We say we were surprised because, in 1880 the Rev. Daniel K. Noyes of the Congregational Church declared that 'the Samuel Gowing house was built less than one hundred years ago', and the Rev. Mr. Noyes was a careful historian, who we had never before found to be in error.

We are convinced that this time the good clergyman was wrong. Joseph Howe was a carpenter, a member of a large Wilmington family, and in the year 1762 according to town records he became the father of a daughter named Phebe. We don't believe that the letters were painted later by pranksters because there was no incentive in early years, and later on no one but a very few interested persons knew that there ever was a Joseph Howe. The last member of the family left town sometime after the Revolution, emigrating, we may guess, to the west.

But now the Samuel Gowing House is gone - a victim of modern progress - and the need for modern highways. The house stood in the nursery started by Jacob Manning many years ago and was later purchased by Herb Barrows, now confined to his bed in a Reading nursing home.

We feel that if Mr. Barrows had been able to be up and about that place would never have been burned - but it's too late now. The town, and the country has lost a very fine specimen of pre-Revolutionary architecture.

We are just going to shut up and sit in a corner somewhere!

The Bell

One of the things about the old Samuel Gowing house was the bell that stood on the rear gable.

We don't know if Herb Barrows put that bell there, or if Jake Manning did, or somebody before Jake, but it was the cynosure of eyes for several miles around.

We heard several men say that some dark night they were intending to 'liberate' that bell - it was a real antique, the kind that one associates with old schoolhouses and churches, and well worthy of liberating.

One of our friends told us that thirty nine men - many of them from Hathaway Acres, had their eye on that bell - not that the residents of that area would stoop to 'liberating' something.

But Bobby Barrows, Herb's oldest son, beat them all to the draw, and he now has it safely tucked away - where it won't be liberated.

Softball

In some respects it is perhaps too bad that there are not more spectators at the soft ball games, but if there were it is quite possible that the boys themselves would enjoy it as much.

The softball games in the Recreation League are really something to watch, if a person wants to just sit and look and do no cheering.

Instead of playing to a grandstand the boys are playing to each other, and there is much more banter and good fun than would ordinarily be the case. From a spectator's viewpoint it is wonderful.

The Merri-Macs, who came out second best this year are a good example. They have a lot of sport lovers - such men as Bob Peters, Larry Cushing, Carl Backman and Oki O'Connell. Carl doesn't have much to say, but the other three are always chattering away, especially Okie. In fact if Okie stopped talking the game would probably stop.

Larry Cushing, in the last game while playing third base had one of those instances that have to be seen to be believed, reaching between his legs for the ball, while the runner from second stole third. It was comical to every one but Larry, and perhaps to him too.

Bob Peters, playing shortstop had a pair of trousers that hung somewhere down below his hips, and, short as he is he had to take several steps before the trousers started moving, or at least so it seemed. Bob didn't realize it, which added to the situation.

Then there was the time that the Stingers and the National Polychemical Team were playing down in the town park.

It was one of those businesses that movie directors put into films for comic laughs, but which never happen in real life - you know the kind where the hero makes a touchdown, but at the wrong end of the field.

John Harvey, of Jones Avenue had made first successfully, and was all-hepped up to get to second. He saw his chance, and made it, to the cheers of his team.

Finally Bob Swazey, who was playing third base realized something was wrong. He threw the ball to second base, and John was out.

Instead of stealing second John had stolen the pitchers box, and was standing there serenely when the umpire declared him out.

In this last game Bob Peters and Boo Boo Shepard did a Alphonse and Gaston act that was almost as good.

Ted McKie hit a high fly, to shortstop. Shep came roaring up from the outfield to back up shortstop Peters.

Peters said 'I got it'. Boo said the same thing.

Both of them stepped aside, so as not to interfere with the other, and the ball landed on the ground between them.

They played like the Yankees in the World Series.

MARY E GREANEY BRIDE OF PAUL F O'LOUGHLIN

Miss Mary Elizabeth Greaney, daughter of Mr and Mrs James Greaney of 22 Main St, Woburn, became the bride of Mr Paul F O'Loughlin, Wilmington teacher, in an 11 o'clock ceremony at the Immaculate Conception Church in Winchester. Mr O'Loughlin is the son of Mr and Mrs Frank O'Loughlin of 29 Forest St, Lowell. The couple was united in marriage by the Rev Fr Banks.

The church was beautifully decorated with white gladioli, and the music during the ceremony was On This Day and Oh Lord I'm Not Worthy.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white gown of embroidered silk with a Sabrina neckline, short sleeves, finger tip veil, and pearls.

Miss Josephine Greaney was her sister's maid of honor. Mrs Elinor McAuliffe, sister of the groom, and Miss Pattie Conlon of Woburn, and Mrs Marcella Ogan of Winchester were bridesmaids. The attendants wore gowns of shrimp silk organza with portrait neckline, white Marguerita flowers, and shrimp picture hats.

Mr Eugene McAuliffe of Lowell, brother-in-law of the groom was best man. Ushers were Mr Martin Greaney, brother of the bride, Mr Norman Simms of Nashua, N H, and Mr Amos Turner of Lowell.

A reception was held at St Anthony's Hall, where the guest book was in charge of Mrs Jean Greaney, sister-in-law of the bride. The mother of the bride wore light blue lace.

After a wedding trip to Miami, Florida, the couple will live in Lowell.

Mr O'Loughlin is a graduate of Lowell Teachers College, a veteran of the Korean War, and a member of the Army Reserve. He is a teacher in the Wilmington schools, and his bride is employed at the New England Tel & Tel.

Several of the boys and girls of Mr O'Loughlin's class attended the marriage and reception.

FIRST MEETING IN FIFTY YEARS

The family comes from Morcone, near Naples, in Italy. Mrs. Pietroangelo left Italy four years ago to live with her children in Toronto. She speaks but very little English.

Board of Health

is permitted in this kind of dump. The rubbish is placed in trenches which are covered with fill at the end of each day. Such a dump is not a nuisance even to the closest abutters and is often used as a means of filling and reclaiming undesirable land. Projects like this have been successful in many towns and could be successful in Wilmington.

Shortly after coming to these conclusions the board was approached by Mr. Spinazola, owner of the Blue Hog Farm in South Wilmington on the question of setting up a dump in this area. From the start Mr. Spinazola agreed to run the dump as a sanitary land fill under strict control of the Board of Health. The proposed contract also gave more protection to the town than does the Canelas contract. Because Spinazola had the necessary equipment, (and still does; trucks, bulldozer and two shovels) and fill already in his property, and because his site was large enough to permit the dumping of some out of town rubbish he was able to offer the town a price of $4000 a year for the town dump. Since this is less than 1/4 of the present cost (and about 60% of the yearly cost of a 5 year contract with Mr. Canelas according to Mr. Hagerty). The Board of Health was interested for purely financial reasons. Furthermore the location, ease of access, type of operation and control by the town were all ideal.

In consideration of all this the Board of Health decided to give Spinazola a license to operate the town dump as a sanitary land fill on the expiration of Canelas' contract June 30, 1958. It is at this point that as Mr Hagerty so nicely put it, someone started kicking the thing around. The events are not clear, but it appears that the following things happened:

(1) Spinazola did not apply for his bond and liability insurance until sometime in June even though the bond and insurance were exceptionally large.

(2) Although Mr. Spinazola was able to get the required bond (Mr Hagerty not withstanding) he was unable to secure the liability insurance as required by the town before the expiration of Canelas' contract. Since the Spinazola dump would save the town a considerable amount of money it was worthwhile to wait before signing the contract with Canelas in the hope that Spinazola would get the necessary insurance.

When he failed to do so by June 30 the board was forced to extend Canelas' license for the rest of the year at his price of $5000.

At this moment the situation is as follows:

(1) A license to operate a sanitary land fill dump has been issued to Spinazola contingent on his supplying the necessary bonds and insurance. This puts Spinazola in position to bid for the town contract when Canelas' expires in Jan 1959.

(2) Mr Hagerty seems to favor a long term contract (3-5 yrs) with Canelas even though the yearly cost would be $2000-

$3000 higher than Spinazola's first bid.

(3) The majority of the Board of Health feel that the type of operation, the cost and contract agreed to by Spinazola are so advantageous to the town that it would be 'foolish' to squeeze him out by signing a long term contract with Canelas, even if it could legally be done.

George O'Brien had his wish come true, when he beat the Merri-Macs. He went the whole seven innings, giving 8 runs and 7 walks.

The defense work for the Townies was by Gene Hovey, Junior Fuller and Dave Newhouse. They were very good.

Joe Gilligan pitched the seven innings for the Merri-Macs. Gilligan was a victim of poor support in the last game. Larry Cushing and Bucky Backman were the outstanding fielders of the Merri-Macs.

LETTERS

Town Crier:
Gentlemen:

I do not agree with your story of last week in which you state that the Highway Department has never been able to do everything asked of it, because it has never got the money needed to do that work.

It is a known fact that each year the Selectmen have asked the Town manager to let out part of the town work on contract, and this has not been done.

It is a known fact that there is work to be done each year that is never completed, because (and there is always an excuse of this type) 'we got an early snowstorm' or something like that.

It is not so widely known, but the Finance Committee, to my best understanding has sided with the Selectmen in the belief that part of the Highway Department work should be let out on contract.

If our Highway Department, and our Town managers and Engineers had bent every effort, including the use of contractors, to get the work done, and at the end of the year were unable to finish because of lack of time I would agree with you.

But they haven't done this. As things now stand the County is threatening to cancel part of the town's Chapter 90 program because no attention is being paid to it.

Incidentally, has anyone ever asked why the Superintendent of Highways never takes a vacation?

(Name Withheld by Request)

Dear Sir:

In regard to the caption under the proposed seventeen sided school, I suggest the following terms which I coined from information in the book on the Greek language in the Wilmington Public Library. The shape may be a 'heptakaidekahedron', and described as 'heptakaidekagonal'. (Neither of these two words was to be found in Webster's Unabridged Dictionary.)

(Name withheld by request.)

Dear Sir:

Glad to see reader Ferguson recognizes how deplorable the Square looks in its new coat of Cowtown Red. Although his satire was too fast for the editor, it reached this reader and was loudly cheered.

Walter E. Newman

One of these days we'll have to take a trip down to the square and see what this is all about.

AROUND THE LAKE

By The Lady of the Lake
Seems as if our two ladies of the submarine sandwich shop have seen Life From a Front Row Seat. Lenore, "Lennie" Black, and her cousin Virginia "Ginger" MacFarland are both well-travelled and well-read gals.

"Lennie" is the sister of the noted Dr. Stuart Black, Ph.D., who heads Bio-Physics at St.

Mary's Clinic, Grand Junction, Colorado. He is presently doing research into the effects of radiation on cancer.

Lennie her self has crossed the continent eight times, and has travelled in the Philippines, Guam, Shanghai and Canada with her dad, who until the time of his death was a Navy man.

Cousin "Ginger" has seen service in dancing in numbers of her own production in theatres and nightclubs throughout the East.

Their past business ventures have been a roadside stand in Florida, and running a rooming house in Boston.

They are both well fitted for their present business venture in the Submarine Shop, on Main Street, by the Lake. They have come to believe that the small town is the backbone of the nation, and Wilmington is privileged indeed to have them both.

And some day, should they chance to write a book, there is enough living in both their lives to fill a good sized volume.

Swimming

Have you notice how everybody seems to have deserted the Town Beach? In the past two weeks there have been very few people swimming there, and more have been down at the McQuaide's (popularly called Baby Beach).

We think they must have read the story in the Town Crier about there being cleaner water at McQuaide's.

Keithy Graham, incidently, was bitten by some bug, while bathing in the lake the other day. The bite was in his hand. He ran home to his mother, and by the time he got home not only that arm, but his body was swelling up, and in his face too.

Clair Peterson took young Keith to St. Johns Hospital in Lowell, and he was back home next afternoon, fit as a fiddle.

The doctors had used some of the modern miracle drugs, injected into his system, but they had to keep him overnight to watch him.

But we are wondering what bit Keith.

THOUSANDS OF BRICKS

The last of the Samuel Gowing house to remain standing was the massive central chimney, containing many thousands of bricks, all of which had been made in a clay pit, in back of the farm, at the time the house was built. It was knocked down, and buried, by the Fire Department. Watching the hose (in white cap) is Chief Arthur Boudreau.
